based business valuation will total up all the investments in the company. Asset-based business valuations can be done in one of two ways: A going concern asset-based approach takes a look at the company's balance sheet, lists the business's total assets, and subtracts its total liabilities. This is also called book value.

Business Owners
Business Valuation It is normal for a Business Owner to want to know what their company is worth as it is most probably the largest asset they own.

Business valuation goes beyond simple mathematics and is what one might call a "subjective science."

The science part of business valuation is what people go to school to learn.
