Reforming The World The Creation

Reforming the World offers a sophisticated account of how and why, in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, American missionaries and moral reformers undertook work abroad at an unprecedented rate and scale. Looking at various organizations such as the Young Men's Christian Association and the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions, Ian Tyrrell describes the influence that the export of American values had back home, and explores the methods and networks used by ...

Reforming the World: The Creation of America's Moral Empire

Ian Tyrrell's Reforming the World examines the group of "moral reformers" that expanded from the end of the nineteenth century as these men and women built up a transnational network that they could use to construct a (in their view) better world even beyond the United States, be it by bringing Christianity or by saving from the horrors of alcohol. For Tyrrell such activities, motivated by Christian beliefs, became appreciably more transnational and reform programs within and beyond ...
