Reel Lawn Mowing Tips | Planet Natural

The reel mower does not stun the blades with a crush-cut like a string trimmer or rotating horizontal steel blade does. As mentioned, this is a trim and groom mower. The grass never misses a growth beat and there are no "hairy edges" left behind to add a tan sheen to the lawn as the crushed bits die and new blades must form.

When properly adjusted, this mower will not tear your grass at the tip like a powered-mower blade can. The 20" cutting width is pretty generous among other reel mowers, but it's rather small compared to most powered mowers. You wouldn't really miss an inch or two if you have a smaller lawn. What really makes this one stand out from other modern reel mowers is its ease of maneuverability. The rear wheels are designed to make turning easier and smoother.
